OUT OF THE WORLD.

George Adler Found Dead This Morning in His Room at the Vance Hotel.

equent Inquiries Show That He St Himself, Owing to His Finan-cial Kobarraaments.

This morning a rumor went around the city that a man had committed suicide at the Vance hotel. The Light commissioner pro-ceeded to the hotel and there found that the victim was George Adler, a commission mervictim was George Adler, a commission merchant in this city, who was formerly book-keeper to Messen. I. Efron & Co., and who acquired considerable notoriety by shooting at Senator Pfeuffer, at New Brauntels, a few months ago. From the contreous clerk at the Vance hotel, Mr. A. H. Graydon, the commissioner learned that the deceased had hoarded at the hotel for about seven months, and had latterly been in a desponding state respecting his financial embarrasament, which deceased alleged was occasioned by the fall in, and duilness of the wool market. Last night he and the deceased went over to Hitger's saloon and there had a friendly game of "seven up." They returned to the hotel about 1s o'clock, and then the deceased was perfectly sober. They talked for a short about it o'clock, and then the deceased was perfectly sober. They talked for a short time, and the deceased suddenly assumed the appearance of a man being into cleated. This caused Mr. Graydon to remark to another man "Jim did you ever see a man get drunk se quick." After a while Adler says I "think 'Ill go to bed," and Graydon answered "all right." Adler then sent to his toom, which was the last one on the first flor. At the same time Graydon went to his cot on the gallery and to use his own words, "turned in." About an hour after Graydon heard the report of a pistol which he to his cot on the gallery and to use his own words, "turned in." About an hour after Graydon heard the report of a pistol which he located in the adjoining yard and thought the negro waiters were having a rumpus. The night clerk also heard the report of the pistol and went into the yard, but found no one there. Mr. Fish, who slept in the next room, heard the report and thought it came from Adler's room. He listened for a time, and hearing no pages concluded that he was not to the page of the p Adder's room. He hatened for a time, and hearing no noise, concluded that he was mis-taken in the location of the sound. Nothing more was seen or heard until the chamber maid entered the room this morning at 10 o'clock, when the morning at 10 o'clock, when the she found the deceased sitting on a chair in front of a looking-glass quite dead. A pool of blood on the floor told its story and the chambermaid at once told the proprietor, Captain McNutt, who proceeded to the deceased's room. The body of Adler was lifted from the chair and laid on the floor. It was attired only in shirts pants and socks, just above the right eye was the bollet hole; blood had tracked down his face and then over his clothing. As he lay on the floor with his arms upstretched and his knees in a sitting posture, the picture was an awhil one. The hands were tightly clenched, indicative of pain, and the limbs perfectly rigid. By his side was the small derringer The hands were tightly clenched, indicative of pain, and the limbs perfectly rigid. By his side was the small derringer with which he had succeeded and which, strange to say, is said to be the weapon wi h which he shot at Senator Pfeuffer. Captain McNutt sent information of the suicide to Justice Adam. He at some conversable to Justice Adam. tier Adam. He at once empannelled a jury, proceeded to the Vance hotel, and visited the scene. THE REAUTIFUL RAIN.

Its Effect in the City and in the Country Districts.

Its Effect in the City and in the Country Districts.

Rain fell heavily sesterday in the city and practically suspended all business, as no one would verture out unless compelled to do so. At one time a pool of water about a foot deep stood in the Alamo plaza and it was a matter of difficulty to cross it at many points. This, it is said, was mainly occasioned by the neglect to properly open the dirches. Many of our streets flooded were several inches deep, and the river rapidly rose. About 8 o'clock the weather cleared off and there are now indications that the "flood gates of heaven" are temporarily closed.

The rain has been general, and is undoubtedly besteficial to the country. While it is too late to do any good to the cereal or fruit crops, and indeed may injure them, it is a God-send t the stockmen, inasmuch it will provide the cattle with fodder and water for some time. It may also be advantageous to cotton in some sections.

News reached the police office yesterday that a colored man, whose name is unknown, was creating a disturbance near San Pedro springs. Officer Bishop immediately proceeded to the spot and found a colored woman harricaded in the bare house, and in a great fright. The disturber, however, had escaped. It appears the man had taken a fancy to a dog belonging to the woman, and being terfused when he asked for it, threatened to murder her, and commenced throwing stones and breaking open the door. She contrived to notify her hearest male neighbor of her danger, but he was not man enough to interfere, though he sent for the police. The offender's description is in the hands of the police, who think they will arrest him to-day.
